

Nonfiction Discussion Questions

- Did this book change or challenge any preconceived notions you had about the subject?
- Have you read anything else on this subject by an author with a different viewpoint?
- What did you learn from this book?
- Did you find the subject interesting?
- What did you think about the author's style?
- Do you think the author did a good job explaining the subject? What might have been done better?
- What biases do you think the author might have? How could this impact the way the book was written?
- Did you stop to Google anything while reading this book?
- Do you think the book was effectively organized? Are there any ways the structure could be improved?